1. being grateful for what we have. It is an attitude of gratitude for learning, loving and being.
 4. means that others can depend on you. You keep your commitments and give your best to every job. You are responsible. You don't forget, and you don't need to be reminded.
 6. having faith in someone or something. It is a positive attitude about life. You are confident that the right thing will happen without trying to control it or make it happen.
 8. work and live together peacefully. We feel connected with each other and all living things. We value the special-ness of each person as a gift, not as a reason to fight or be scared.
 9. telling the truth kindly, considerate of how your words affect others' feelings. Think before you speak, knowing what is better left unsaid.
 10. giving to others, making a difference in their lives. You consider their needs as important as your own. Be helpful without waiting to be asked.
 12. being honest in your words and actions. You don't tell lies even to defend yourself. Don't listen to gossip or prejudice.
1. accepting differences. You don't expect others to think, look, speak or act just like you. You are free of prejudice, knowing that all people have feelings, needs, hopes and dreams.
 2. using your mind to think clearly, paying careful attention to see the meaning of things.
 3. It is doing what you really want to do, rather than being tossed around by your feelings like a leaf in the wind. You act instead of react. You get things done in an orderly and efficient way.
 5. You accept accountability for your actions. When you make a mistake, you offer amends instead of excuses.
 6. being worthy of trust. People can count on you to do your best, to keep your word and to follow through on your commitments. You do what you say you will do.
 7. having a clear focus. Begin with a vision for what you want to accomplish, and concentrate on your goals. Do one thing at a time, without scattering your energies.
